

News Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Nov. 9, 2020

CONTACT: Suzanna Cisneros, suzanna.cisneros@ttuhsc.edu
(806) 743-7605

Bergeson, Collaborators Developing

to animals and that you don't see any significant side These studies are done in at least two different mammals to see if the drug has any problems before the FDA allows it to be tested in clinical trials involving humans. Minocycline, the parent compound,

The next step will require the Bergeson/Shen team to present their preclinical animal studies to the FDA for a